About OnlineTraining:

The prime objective of Good Governance is to promote transparency and to create accountability among public servants, in order to contain corruption.In this connection GOI has enacted a Law called "Right to Information" in 2005. The Act provides for a practical regime of right to information for citizens to secure access to information under the control of public authorities, in order to promote transparency and accountability in the working of every public authority, the constitution of a Central Information Commission and State Information Commission and for matters connected therewith or incidental thereto. It has also helped the public authorities to streamline their information systems and office productivity.

The Two-Day Online training is going to deal with the principles of Good Governance and the provisions under the RTI Act along withthe role of various stakeholders in promoting transparency in administration of Public Authorities.

Course Objective:

The Two-Day program will enable the participants to:

- Understanding the basic provisions of the RTI 2005 Act.
- Prepare Govt officials /PIOs/FAAs better handle RTI applications from the Citizens
- Streamline office procedures with modern IT Practices for better Records Management.
